The Twelfth February Furniture Sale at Savings
Ranging From 10% to 25%

THE EXPERIENCE OF A DOZEN YEARS IS WORTH A GREAT DEAL IN AN EVENT OF THIS KIND, AS WILL BE PROVEN BY THIS FURNITURE, AND THE PRICES ON IT

A large part of the G Street Building, Sixth Floor, as well as the Gift Room, is given over to the display and sale of this Furniture. We present carefully selected lines of the best Furniture for our clientele. This is the point we wish to emphasize, aside from the savings—the Furniture is suited exactly to the needs of our customers as made known through their choice and opinion when they buy during the regular season.

NO DETAIL OF QUALITY, DESIGN OR EXCELLENCE HAS SUFFERED FOR THE SAKE OF ECONOMY—THERE IS QUALITY IN EVERY PIECE.

In the sale is a wealth of variety in Furniture of all the various woods and finishes, and in an extensive assortment of styles for parlors, living rooms, libraries, dining-rooms, halls, and bedrooms. The sale comprises many complete suites, but the most attractive values are naturally in the odd and fancy pieces, incomplete suites, and samples. There are many such offerings, showing great reductions, and including the finest pieces in the store to those of medium grade, but genuinely worthy in every particular.

MOST OF THIS FURNITURE IS TAKEN FROM OUR REGULAR STOCK, THOUGH WE HAVE ADDED SPECIAL PURCHASES WHEREVER POSSIBLE.

Dining-Room Suites,
Bed Chamber Suites,

SEE CLARK IN A WILSON PLOT.

President's Friends Blame Speaker for Nebraska Jan Term Bill.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 31.—Representative Richmond, protégé of Senator Hitchcock, has introduced a bill in the Nebraska house providing that every candidate for Presidential election must sign an oath pledging himself not to vote for any man for President who has served as President at any previous time. Mr. Richmond frankly says that his bill is an attempt to make the single term plank in the Baltimore convention effective and to prevent attempts to bolt regular nominees of conventions, this latter being provided for in a paragraph requiring electors to abide to the choice of their party conventions.

Wilson men openly charge that the bill was drawn by Arthur Mullen, campaign manager for Champ Clark in Nebraska in 1912, and that copies of the bill have been sent to Clark men in other States urging its introduction and passage as an effective way of barring Wilson from the 1916 primaries.

Without any means of protection against the pressure of the water, a Greek sponge fisherman recently made a dive to a depth of 252 feet, believed to be the world's record.

CITES RELIGION AS WAR CAUSE

William McCracken, Christian Scientist, Sees Strife in Many Denominations.

LECTURES AT POLI'S

Declares Obedience to One God by Men and Nations Would Insure Peace and Co-operation.

A lecture on Christian Science was delivered by William D. McCracken, M. A. C. S. B., at Poli's Theater yesterday afternoon under auspices of First and Second Churches of Christ, Scientist, of this city. The theater was crowded. Mr. McCracken is a member of the board of trustees of the Mother Church in Boston. He was introduced by Hiram W. Hayes, of the committee on publication for the District of Columbia. Among other things the lecturer said: "It is evident that the belief of many gods lies at the base of all strife between men and nations. If different religious denominations, different political groups and different racial units each possess a different god, it becomes the duty of each to fight in behalf of their own god, and the result is pandemonium. But if there is only one God governing the universe, including man, then obedience to that one God insures peace, co-operation and mutual helpfulness among men and nations. The science which is giving man an understanding of the one God is, therefore, providing the final cure for all religious, social, political and economic conflicts and contests.

God is Spirit. "Every step in the direction of the right understanding of God brings its own reward. The study of each of the religions for God leads to practical conclusions which become opportunities in everyday experience. The use of the word Spirit in defining God reveals the essential nature of man, for the Scriptures assure us that man was made in the image and likeness of God; then, if God is Spirit, as Jesus declared to the Samaritan woman, man must be spiritual, must partake of the nature of God. This description of man is at variance with the teaching of scholastic theology that man is a material mechanism. "The saving and healing practice of the founder of the Christian religion was based upon spiritual understanding, not upon the evidence of sense testimony. Theology, medicine, and science of Jesus were all one. His understanding of God and of man constituted the whole of his culture and learning, and made him the wisest, as well as the most scientific, of all men. He did not need one kind of wisdom in order to save the sinner, another kind to heal the sick, and yet another kind to enable him to walk the waves and still the storm. His understanding of God made him master over sin, sickness, death, and material law, gave him authority to say to the man sick of the palsy not only 'Thy sins are forgiven thee,' but also 'Arise, take up thy bed and walk,' and to command the storm with his authoritative 'Peace, be still!'

What is Matter? "When we come to consider the essential nature of matter, the question arises, 'Is matter of God's creation?' Is God, who is Spirit, Mind, Soul, the creator of that which is so unlike himself? "It should be noted that thinkers in all ages have found it very difficult to define matter. The most successful definitions of matter have been in terms of mind, that is, have been metaphysical, not physical. "In recent years the popular supposition that matter is indestructible substance has received some very marked modifications. The theory that the atom has substance has now given place to the theory that the atom is an electrical charge, and that the electric ion is equivalent to energy, or to a form of motion. The more the atom is pursued the more evanescent it becomes until it is reduced to mere suggestion. "Now, if matter resolves itself into a supposition it is obvious that its seemingly pernicious activities can be corrected mentally, through spiritual understanding, through Christ, Truth. If matter is not an independent entity, dictating terms to man, but is under control through Christian Science, then one of the most prolific sources of fear has been overcome—the fear that matter is an uncontrollable power urging man forward to an irresistible doom. Public opinion is being constantly prepared, through the investigation of the physical sciences themselves, to accept the conclusions reached by Mrs. Eddy by many years ago and found in the Christian Science text-book, namely—Matter is an error of statement."

GERMANS PUZZLED BY CZAR'S NEW CAMPAIGN

Expect Violent Offensive, but Are Ignorant of Extent of Russian Re-enforcements.

London, Jan. 31.—A Central News dispatch from Copenhagen says: "The Berlin correspondent of the National Tidende says it is believed probable that the Russian general staff is about to abandon its almost stationary trench campaign in favor of a great new scheme, which has been worked out by Grand Duke Nicholas, the Russian commander-in-chief. "The scheme is said to be based upon the co-operation of enormous far-flung masses of troops. "It is evident that the Germans expect some new and violent Russian offensive, but they are uncertain as to the extent to which the Russians recently have been re-enforced, and also concerning the movements of the Russian second-line troops."

STOLEN COAT ON HIS BACK.

Patrolman Had Bought Fur Garment for Which He Hunted. La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 31.—Frank Mims, night patrolman, was scouring the town for a fur-lined stolen overcoat. Every time he saw a stranger wearing an extra bulky garment he went up to him and felt the goods. He never thought of examining his own coat.

Mims wore the coat around on his back and revealed its whereabouts to himself on the bargain he had driven. He bought it of a stranger for $1.

AT LAST THE RABBIT CAT.

They Hop Like a Rabbit and Meow Something Like a Cat. Bay Minette, Ala., Jan. 31.—Two fresh kittens belonging to the home of John Mann, who resides a short distance west of this place, are attracting considerable attention. The kittens have many characteristics of the rabbit and appear to be a cross between a cat and a rabbit. They have front feet with claws of a cat and hind feet with those of a rabbit. In moving about they hop as does a rabbit, and their "meow" is more like a grunt or a faint bark.

ADVOCATES OF PEACE AGAINST DISARMAMENT

Strong Army and Navy Needed to Secure Pacification of European War, Says Representative Fess.

Very few who have given the European war and its effects serious thought are now advocating disarmament by the United States without an international agreement participated in by all the great powers of the world. Among the prominent participants in the movement toward universal peace who are opposed to disarmament on the part of the United States without the co-operation of the other great powers is Representative S. D. Fess, of Ohio. Dr. Fess is president of the Antioch College, which has always taken a prominent part in the peace movement. Horace Mann, the great educator and one of the early presidents of Antioch, was an advocate of universal peace when Andrew Carnegie was too busy manufacturing war material to think of a peace propaganda.

Dr. Fess says: "Many students of world politics predict disarmament as the most likely and vital result of the European war. I sincerely hope that this will prove true, and I would be the last to favor anything that would retard the movement toward universal peace. But in taking up the question of national defense and the part that this nation is to take in world politics we should take into consideration things as they are and not as they should be. "No one would seriously argue that the European conditions would justify our nation to refuse national defense while Europe remained an armed camp. The disarmament must come as a world movement, in which our nation will gladly join. As we now find ourselves, we must hold aloof from entangling alliances, ready to bring the warring nations together for settlement in the meantime we cannot gain any prestige for this great work by allowing great nations to override treaties and violate neutral rights on the sea without protest. "While the hearts of all Americans go out to the suffering of other lands, we pledge ourselves to our own national defense and to the opportunity which it bids the warring countries seek better methods of adjustment than the test of battle. Herein lies this nation's greatest opportunity. To this end we must have law and order, for respect for treaties and for the rights of all nations, great and small. We must be ready to interfere with the warring nations to the other, and, if necessary, be the just man armed that we may fulfill our mission as the peacemaker when half the world is in arms. The time has not yet arrived when the demand for respect of our national rights will receive serious consideration from any nation when it is not backed up by a strong army and navy."

THE GREAT WHITE WAY.

By O. O. MINTYRE.

(Special Correspondent of The Washington Herald.) New York, Jan. 30.—There are two high spots in New York where there is no sign of depression from war—the Globe Theater and the New Amsterdam. This season, notoriously the worst in the memory of theatrical men, Mr. Dillingham, in "Chin-Chin" and "Watch Your Step," has produced the two greatest musical comedy successes in the same memory. "Last summer," said Dillingham, "a few of my fellow managers heard that I was planning to give you a new production, and they tried to restrain me with argument. 'Now that you are fit after being ill three years, you ought to go slow,' I figured it was worth a smash this was the year as I could blame it on the war. I could stand on Broadway and Forty-second street and say, 'Look what the Kaiser did to me.' "Mr. Dillingham, however, has told his intimates that in tackling the big productions, which cost him a fortune each night, he was banking on business done in theatricals during times of disaster in the past. The box office receipts at Wallack's after the civil war show the biggest receipts in his history. The theatrical business was good after the quake in San Francisco—people were seeking diversion. It was a risky undertaking on the part of Mr. Dillingham, but he can smile now.

Nellie Revelle, of the Morning Telegraph, was dancing in a Broadway cafe the other evening. Shortly before she was setting ready to leave, a tall, raw-boned man asked her to go to his room. They started and Miss Revelle soon discovered he was much of a novice at it. The man, however, enjoyed it very much. After he walked all over her feet he spoiled a new pair of pink satin dancing slippers, he gazed fondly into her eyes and murmured: "I could die doing this."

"Well, hurry up," replied Miss Revelle. Teaching ambitious song writers by mail makes life a sad affair for Rialto publishers. Here is an effort received from Oxford. For George's sister went and had to be operated on. George took her to a hospital but the grief of his heart was torn. But when the trained nurse came in, George almost ruined his shin. Ascarapin and abowin, and his eyes with love throwing. There she got mad and wrote George a nasty note. Poor thing!

A Broadway theater advertises: "Tonight! Battling Nelson in a full dress suit."

Hotel McAlpin Happenings. New York, Jan. 31.—Mrs. M. P. Groner and Mrs. R. W. Hawkesworth announce they will give a series of fashion teas in the Winter Garden of the Hotel McAlpin every Thursday afternoon, beginning on February 4. There will be a parade of beautiful living models wearing the latest creations in fashionable dress, from full evening dress models to the negliges. Hickson and Company, of 565 Fifth avenue, will exhibit six models, including a riding habit girl, evening gowns and tailored suits; Stein & Blaine, of West Thirty-sixth street, will show a hatter's model, and with her will be Boris Godonov, the Russian wolfhound belonging to Miss Anna Case, of the Metropolitan Opera Company. On February 15 the proceeds of the fashion tea will be devoted to a very worthy charitable organization of this city.

Look out for spurious Mexican paper money. John W. Roberts, war correspondent with Villa, who is at the Hotel McAlpin, has received a telegram from the Mexican minister in reply to an inquiry asking about a new issue of bank notes for that country, samples of which had been shown Mr. Roberts. The wire is as follows: "Answering your message of yesterday inform Mr. Roberts I have ordered no new bills. This is a counterfeiting scheme that must be stopped at once."

FRANCISCO VILLA. General-in-Chief of Operations. Mr. Roberts states that spurious notes to the amount of 20,000,000 pesos have been circulated in Mexico. These are all claimed to be counterfeits by Villa, who claims that the Mexican government has authorized from him have ordered quantities of this class of paper from bank-note companies in the United States.

Mr. Roberts has another wire from Villa seeking information as to where Mauser cartridges and other ammunition may be secured. Roberts returns to Mexico in a few days.

safe deposit vault at McAlpin. On Wednesday afternoon one of the cashiers was busily receiving bills for departing guests, when she recognized in the rear of the line a prosperous Boston banker, who was excitedly waving a bunch of keys to attract her attention. "I must get into my safe deposit box at once," he exclaimed. The box was at once procured and passed out to the banker, who thereupon opened it with his key, took out a 2-cent stamp, unlocked the box carefully and returned it to the cashier; then, thanking her, hurried away from the cage.
